The Prayer-Perfect.

Dear Lord, kind Lord, Gracious Lord, I pray, Thou w'it look on all I love Tenderly to-day!

Weed their hearts of weariness; Scatter every care; Down awake of angel-wings. Winnowing the air.

Bring unto the sorrowing All release from pain; Let the lips of laughter Overflow again,

And with all the needy, O divide, I pray,
his vast tressure of content
That is mine to-day!

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

When I Beneath the Cold Red Earth Am Sleeping.

By WILLIAM MOTHERWELL.

William Motherwell, born Glasgow, Scotland, 1707, died 1834, was a lawyer, but later became an editor and died of appoplesy at the early age of thirty-saven. Though possessed of one poetic gifts he produced only a small volume of poems before his unlimity death.

HEN I beneath the cold red earth am sleeping, Life's fever o'er,

Will there for me be any bright eye weeping That I'm no more?

Will there for me be any bright eye weeping Of heretofore?

When the great winds, through leafless forests rushing,

Like full hearts break, When the swollen streams, o'er crag and gully gushing, Sad music make;

Will there be one whose heart despair is crushing Mourn for my sake?

When the bright sun upon that spot is shining With purest ray, And the small flowers their buds and blossoms twining

Burst through that clay; Will there be one still on that spot repining Lost hopes all day?

When the night shadows, with the ample sweeping Of her dark pall,

The world and all its manifold creation sleeping, The great and small-

Will there be one, even at that dread hour, weeping For me-for all?

When no star twinkles with its eye of glory On that low mound, And wintry storms have with their ruins hoary

Its loneness crowned; Will there be then one versed in misery's story Pacing it round?

It may be so-but this is selfish sorrow To ask such meed-A weakness and a wickedness to borrow From hearts that bleed, The wailings of to-day for what to-morrow

Shall never need. Lay me then gently in my narrow dwelling,

Thou gentle heart; And though thy bosom should with grief be swelling, Let no tear start;

It were in vain-for Time hath long been kneeling-Sad one, depart!

NEW YORK (October 23.—if indications count for anything, the automobile match race to take place at the Empire track tomorrow promises, to be the greatest contest of its kind that has over taken place in this country. The four greatest chandrurs in this country, perhaps in the world, are to fight for supremacy in the contect, cache was supplied in the contect, cache was not as the reach after the second mile there was no one alse in the face. It is certain, however, that Oldfield will put up a better battlatho next time he faces Berlin. His poor showing at Brighton Beach evidently touched his pride so much that he admitted his never failed him on account of the track. The Empire course, however, is entirely to his liking, and he is going to retrieve his lost honors if daring is capable of turning the trick. So carnest is Oldfield to make good in the Beast, that he cancelled a Western date to race to morrow.

RAILROADS

Earnings of Virginia Railways Are Constantly Increasing.

EXPENSES ARE NO GREATER

This Increase of Business Without Additional Costs Speaks Well-Generous Deed.

The railway lines of the South, especially the great system passing through this State, are continuing their excellent records of earnings, despite the fact that this is a year in which business is usually depressed and transportation correspondingly light. The Chesapeake and Ohio, the Southern and the Norfolk and Western lines are all showing handsome increase in carnings compared to the same too, that with large increases in gross confine these lines show a very small increase in operating expenses and taxos. Of the roads named none has made a better showing than the Chesapeake and Ohio, eminently a Virginia railroad system.

Up to the past few months the operating expenses of the system have almost kept pace with the increased carnings, but this was due to unusually large ad-ditions to the rolling stock and motive power and improvements of r. permanent character in the maintenance of way department. Noteworthy extensions of the system by construction, purchase and lease have been made also. Now, howlease have been made the equipped than ever, the system is better equipped than ever before in its history, and its operto the normal, while the gross earnings and the net as well are increasing far more than proportionately.

No better evidence of these stateme

No better evidence in these statements for September and for the statements for September and for the first quarter of the new fiscal year, just issued by Comptrollor L. F. Sullivan. This statement shows that the gross This statement shows that the gross earnings of the road for September were $1.718.890.73, an increase of $146.183.57 over September, 1903, while the increase in operating expenses was but $13.190.78, leaving an increase in not earnings for this one month of $132.94.79, an increase of about 20 per cent. Gross earnings of the Chesapeake and Ohio from the three ended September 30, 1904, wore $5.210,-175.12, an increase of $120,801.42, or more than eight per cent. Expenses during the quarter were $3.191.632.75, an increase of but $132,141.97. This leaves the net earnings for the quarter of $288,639.45, compured with the same period of 1903. At this ratio for a year an increase of more than a million in net earnings would result. sult.

The Virginia railroads have been exceed ngly generous in their treatment directly of the State Library, and indirectly the whole people of Virginia. They have agreed, upon the suggestion of State Librarian Kennedy, to carry all the traveling libraries free of all cost. This is absolutely unknown to any other State in the Union, for elsewhere individuals pay. The roads making this concession are the Norfolk and Western, Baltimore and Ohlo, Seeboard Ar Line, Southern, N. Y. P. N., Norfolk and Southern, R. F. and P. and C. and O.

The offices of the district passenger agents of the Norfolk and Western and Atlantic Coast Line Rallways at Ninth and Main Streets are to be handsomely improved within. When the improvements are completed the attractiveness of the offices will be greatly enhanced.

The Norfolk and Western Railway will operate a special train to Norfolk from this city to-morrow, on account of the University of Virginia-Carliele foot-ball game there. The train wil leave the Byrd Street Depot at 9:15, and returning will reach this city soon after 10 A. M. A very low rate is offered, and many have signified their intention of going.

DURHAM, N. C., October S.-Mr. Wright, of the Durham Traction Company, has made the citizens of Chapel Hill a proposition, that if they would pelition the next Lesislature to have the steam line from University Station abolished, that he would build a trolley line from this city to Chapel Hill.

The peope of Chapel Hill are very anxious for the line to be built, and agree that there is not enough truffic for the maintenance of two roads, and have signified their intention of asking the next Legislature to have the present steam line done away with.

This will open up a good section of country, and give the people along the line an opportunity to market their products unore quickly and at a smaller coat than at the present time.
